

What we can do to Stay a Respected Adige Nation on Earth

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I like to thank Dr Faidi and Dr Orfan for their new approach to our problems and thus it is a special meeting today in Nuremberg. Also, my appreciation and thanks to the guests who realized the significance of this congress, and came from faraway, or took part in other way.

As you know the situation is dramatical, in bad sense. Unless proper and adequate measures will be adopted, we will lose our language within short time, and that will lead to more regrettable, destructive situations.

We have a lot of good ideas, we all want to do some thing to prevent a disaster, but we are nor able to find a common unified way, and the right executives to do the job as it must be done.

Shall we try to learn how to agree, and apply a strange word for Circassians, namely the CONSENSUS! this word doesn't mean being a loser if you don't agree with an outcome taken by the majority.

Make priorities clear and deal with them one by one, to begin with the most important item, the language. Tradition xabze is flexible, we could easily reach an accord about it.

We have argued long enough about methods, neglecting the subjects. Let's now change the situation and make the subject much more important than the play.

To get positive results let's begin with a large board of wise men to search and find out what we can do to stay a respected Adige nation on earth.

Thank you.

Fathi Radjab

MSc Biology, States Holland